

reasonable. But, it is a difficult and ongoing task for all of us to maintain intellectual honesty with ourselves about our worldview, investments, political choices, etc. How do we do this?

I believe we need to be open to receiving information that challenges our beliefs. Wrestling with this new information sharpens our thought process, and, at a minimum leaves us better equipped to defend our current beliefs.

This article is part of our behavioral finance series. Other topics in the series have included Anchoring, Framing, Hindsight, Loss Aversion & Endowment, Mental Accounting, and many others.

Gerald A. Townsend, CPA/PFS/ABV, CFP®, CFA®, CMT is president of Townsend Asset Management Corp., a registered investment advisory firm offering comprehensive wealth management expertise to its clients. Email Gerald@AssetMgr.com for more information. And for the latest news and updates, follow Townsend's growing platforms on Linked In, Facebook and Twitter.